

Your Portal is easily my favorite of these singles. It features some killer, spacey synths and has a very minimalist vibe. It isn't just a boring, straightforward beat. There are a lot of changing bits and pieces, and perfectly timed, tiny musical components are added throughout. This is a solid dance track, but more importantly it demonstrates C-WILL121's level of creativity and penchant for the avant garde.

Change Your Mind also comes equipped with some impressive synth hooks, almost sounding like early 90s video game music at times and tropical surf music at other times. The overall tone is slightly brighter than the other tracks. I think this song could also be released as an instrumental version, which would make a great commercial jingle or film soundtrack piece.

C-WILL121 definitely has a knack for composing interesting songs, and I have to admire his willingness to explore new creative angles and fresh sounds.

His full length album, Music Hero (which includes the above tracks,) is scheduled to be released December 7, 2018.

For more info:

http://www.instagram.com/music_observer

<http://www.facebook.com/cwillmusicaction>

April 2017

March 2017

February 2017

January 2017

December 2016

November 2016

October 2016

September 2016

August 2016

July 2016

June 2016

May 2016

April 2016

March 2016

February 2016

January 2016

December 2015

November 2015

October 2015

September 2015

August 2015

July 2015

April 2015

March 2015

February 2015

January 2015

December 2014

November 2014